

MILLION DOLLAR GRAND JURY SHOWS WASHINGTON COUNTY IS UP-TO-DATE

DELEGATES ELECTED BY THE LADY MACCABEES AT DISTRICT MEETING

Billion Dollar Congress Equalled in Effect by Men Who Pass on Expenditures

$500,000 FOR NEW ROADS

Generations Yet to Come
Will be Up Against Task of Paying off Bonds and Interests of Incurred Debts

A "billion dollar Congress" at one time startled the people of the United States by the profligacy of its expenditures, but in these days of frenzied finance nothing is surprising, when it comes to the disbursement of public funds. A million dollar grand jury shows that Washington county is not to be outdone in the matter of public expenditures.

To provide the sinews of war for this tremendous proposed outlay the grand jury approved the petition of the county commissioners for a $500,000 issue of road bonds. As a matter of course this doesn't more than half cover the proposed expenditures but as the latter will drag interminably in the future, generations yet to come will be paying off bonds and interest when those who incurred the debts are dead and forgotten.

This is the record of the grand jury at the county seat which completed its labors Thursday. When the amount of estimated public expenditures approved by this body is summed up it amounts in round numbers to $885,500. To this is to be added another $100,000 which the grand jury is likely to add when it meets again in July to consider the free Brownsville bridge project.

This is not quite a million but as it only lacks $14,400 of it a few thousands more or less are immaterial. All told, the grand jury approved road petitions to the amount of $857,414.14 estimated cost. There are 51 1-2 miles altogether of which 37 3-4 miles are to be constructed of brick and 13 3-4 miles of macadam. The longest piece of brick road is four miles. This is the Pike Run road, the estimated cost of which is $74,437. The longest macadam road is the Williamsport pike 9 3-4 miles, with an estimated cost of $110,000. Nine pieces of road approved for construction of brick had previously been approved by the grand jury for macadam improvements five or six years ago.

Finleyville borough bridge over Peters creek, a span of 50 feet to cost $4,445.10; Bethany borough bridge, 60 foot span over Pigeon creek, $5,313; Monongahela, First ward, bridge over Pigeon creek, 110 foot span to cost $18,000, one half to be paid by the street car company; Sparta bridge, over Short creek in Morris township, 18 foot span, to cost $387.71; Bethany-Hopewell bridge, 40 foot span, to cost $4,015 and the Peters township bridge.

BLOOD POISONING
RESULTS IN DEATH

Frank Welsh Dies at Memorial Hospital, Monongahela, Where He Had Been Taken With Mutilated Arm

His arm badly mutilated about two weeks ago when he was caught between a big belt and fly wheel it is stated at the Charleroi Brick works Frank Welsh, 17 years old, of Charleroi died this morning at the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela. The young man contracted blood poison from the effect of the injury a few days ago after being taken to the hospital, which resulted in his death.

Young Welsh it is said was playing with another boy around the brick plant. According to the story told they were throwing clay and stones on a big belt watching them being carried a distance. A stone too large was thrown on, and being afraid it would enter the machinery, Welsh made a desperate attempt to pull it away, it is said, and his arm was caught. He was taken to the hospital the same evening.

Maccabees From Number of Towns Along Valley Here
for Occasion--State Officers Make Addresses.

Featured by the presence of Miss Nellie E. Lonsberry of Warren, great commander of Pennsylvania and Mrs. H. M. Ellsworth, of Corry the district convention of the Lady Maccabees of the World was held in Charleroi Thursday. Nearly a hundred delegates and members of hives from towns between Uniontown and Elizabeth were present. The main purpose of the convention was for electing delegates to the State convention to be held during June at Williamsport. Mrs. Albert J. Eckel of Charleroi and Mrs. Minnie Kelley, of Donora were chosen regular delegates and Mrs. C. H. Truxal of Belle Vernon and Mrs. Mary McClain of Brownsville alternates.

The afternoon session, which was in reality the only one of the convention, was called to order at 2 o'clock by Mrs. Eckel, Lady Commander of the Charleroi Hive. She introduced Miss Lonsberry, who then assumed the chair. A pleasing program of literary and musical numbers was given and the Donora guard team gave an exhibition drill. The program consisted of the following numbers: Recitation, Mrs. Kelly, Belle Vernon; Scotch song, Mrs. M. J. McGee, Charleroi; recitation, Mrs. Peterson, Belle Vernon; song and recitation, Mrs. Linn, Donora; recitation, Mrs. Emma Evans, Charleroi; recitation, Mrs. Sickels, Donora; recitation, Mrs. Leila Frye, Monessen; Miss Lonsberry and Mrs. Ellsworth both made addresses.

Following the adjournment of the convention the visitors were taken to the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church where a hot supper was served by the Ladies Aid society of that denomination. Details previously arranged were carried out to the letter and the 111 women composing the party were all seated at a given signal. Miss Lonsberry asked the blessing.

In the evening the regular session of the Charleroi hive was held and it was attended by a number of women from other hives who remained over. Members of the Grandview hive of Pittsburgh were present. Lodge business concluded, a social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served. The convention was one of the most successful ever held in the district.

CLEAN UP.

Many towns are having a clean-up
day, or a succession of them. In some of these the movement is voluntary,
and the prompters appeal to civic pride for all to co-operate, while in others the public health officers issue
a mandate for a general clean-up on a certain date and enforce it by aid of State law and municipal health regulations. Both methods are productive of good results.

Thanks to the vigilance of Charle-
roi's health officer and the activity of the street commissioner, this town is not so much in need of a general
clean-up as many others. There are many places, however, where some improvement in this respect might
be made, and now is the time to take this matter in hand. The most offensive places are perhaps the vacant
lots, which become the recipients of
all sorts of rubbish and accumulations.
With these nuisances abated, Charleroi will make a most presentable appearance.

GOING THE LIMIT

In approving the $500,000 bond issue petitioned for by the county commissioners for the construction of county roads under the Flinn road law
it is questionable whether the act was
a wise economic move at this particular time and under present conditions. The real question at issue is whether it is wise to put the whole burden of this road construction on the county on the eve of an era when
State and National aid are bound to be enormously extended. While no one will deny that improved roads are not needed badly enough, the mere fact of involving the county with an enormous debt at the present time,
will not hasten the construction of these improvements. Judging by past experience the proposed new roads will not be completed during the next five or six years, at least.
Roads approved by the grand jury
six years ago, and for which nearly

half a million dollars have been expended, are not completed yet.

It is stated that the present bond issue will bring the county indebtedness to within $400,000 of two per cent of the present assessed valuation,
which is the limit the county commissioners will be enabled to issue
without a vote of the people. With the amounts to be asked for free
bridges and other requirements, the hands of future boards of commissioners will be most effectually tied in the way of county improvements. This was the condition of the boards in the past as a result of the previous "good roads" movement, when county resources were mortgaged for a time,
and the roads approved by the grand jury could not be constructed as expected, but had to be held up for lack of funds. Going the limit of indebtedness works much the same with counties and municipalities as with individuals.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"It was a notable representation of
men that appeared before the grand jury from Charleroi in advocacy of good substantial brick roads," at the
good substantial brick roads," said
Hon. Edward Callaghan, who is serving in the capacity of grand juror at the county seat. Messrs. Thompson, Berryman Daly, Rush and Holt created favorable impression upon the tribunal that was to pass upon these petitions. For the future guidance of the council of Charleroi it will be important to put on record the opinions expressed by R. H. Ruch and Kerfoot Daly, while on the witness stand, and which had an important
bearing on the case.

"While they did not commit the borough of Charleroi to a policy that it would pave the half mile of mud
holes connecting with the Fallowfield
end of the brick paving, they did
make it apparent, not only to the grand jury, but to Washington county
that if the borough of Charleroi did not pave Lincoln avenue extension
it was ignoring the wishes of up-to-date progressive citizens who stood
before them."

The other day a three-year old tot
was taken from her home on the hill
to stay with her grandmother on one
of the lower streets, while an interesting event took place at the hillside
home. That evening the little one's father came to bring her back and thought to surprise her with the remark:

"What do you think, you have a little sister at home."

"I thought you were getting ready for something there," was the sage
reply.

TALE OF A NAIL

The Queer Way in Which a Crime Was Brought to Light.

Dr. John Donne, the famous English divine and poet, who lived in the reign of James I., was a veritable Sherlock Holmes. One of his famous exploits was as follows: He was walking in the churchyard while a grave was being dug, when the sexton
cast up a moldering skull. The doctor knew it was a skull, and in handling it found a headless nail driven into it.

This he managed to take out and conceal in his handkerchief. It was evident to him that murder had been done. He questioned the sexton and learned that the skull was probably
that of a certain man who was the proprietor of a brandy shop and was a drunkard, being found dead in bed one morning after a night in which he had drunk two quarts of brandy.

"Had he a wife?" asked the doctor.
"Yes." "What character does she
bear?" "She bore a very good character, only the neighbors gossiped because she married the day after her husband's funeral. She still lives here."
The doctor soon called on the woman.

He asked for, and received, the particulars of the death of her husband.
Suddenly opening his handkerchief, he showed her the telltale nail, asking in
a loud voice, "Madame, do you know
this nail?" The woman was so surprised that she confessed, was tried and executed.—London Tit-Bits.

ART OF JUGGLING.

A Means of Recreation For the Sedentary or Bedridden.

Speaking of conjuring, the allied art of juggling is one of the most amusing and valuable of diversions, especially to the sedentary. Many physicians become expert in juggling, but it is to their patients that it is most useful.

The bedridden, if they retain the use of their hands, may beguile many a weary hour in learning to keep three or four tennis balls in the air at once and in balancing sticks and other similar objects on the forefinger or on the chin.

For the brain worker who does not care for walking there is no better recreation. It has often occurred to us that in cases where there is any reason to fear some form of paralysis the educating of disused cerebral, cerebellar and spinal centers by the rapid and complex movements required in juggling might serve to act as an efficient preventive.

We do not wish to claim too much for manual education of this kind, but we may point out that it tends to perfect nervous poise and that no juggling trick can be properly done if the performer indulges in dissipation even so mild as beer and cigarettes.—American Medicine.

Talking to the Doctor.

While making some professional calls in a sparsely settled district I came upon a little plump, rosy cheeked girl trudging toward home with her slate and dinner pail in her hand. I asked her to ride with me. I could see that she was a very timid child, and efforts to engage her in conversation were unavailing. She would meekly answer "Yes" or "No," but not another word would she speak.

A few weeks later I was called to the little girl's home to attend another member of the family for a slight ailment. When about to leave the mother spoke up smilingly and said: "Do you remember my little girl riding with you a few weeks ago? Well, when she got home she said, 'Mamma, I rode from school with the doctor, and he kept talking with me and talking with me, and I just didn't know what to do, for you know doctors charge you when you talk with them, and I didn't have any money.'"—National Monthly.

A Story of Longfellow.

In Longfellow's journal, in which he chronicled daily things that came under his observation, he notes that upon a certain occasion he attended a church where the minister took as his subject "Progress." He was very flattered when the latter quoted about half of the "Psalm of Life." After repeating the verses the minister said, "I could never read that poem without feeling the inspiration with which it was written." To this incident Longfellow adds: "But I had the conceit taken out of me on the evening of that day, when I happened to meet a lady at Prescott's and in our conversation she referred to the sermon in the morning and added, 'He quoted some beautiful verses, but nobody knew from whence came the quotations.'"

Handy With the Whip.

Teamsters are prouder of their skill with the whip than of anything else in the world. A group of teamsters were talking one night.

"Out on the plains," said one young fellow, "I used to cut down a steer with my whip, skin him and divide up his carcass."

A red headed fellow said his uncle could take two whips and write the Lord's Prayer on the bark of a birch with the left hand one, at the same time operating selections with the other on a tin can at seven paces.

"That's pretty good work," said a veteran, "but my old father used to draw corks with every flick of the lash."

Then a cross eyed stranger spoke up. "Gents," he said, "I know there's men can even hair cut and shave ye with a whip—I know it, for I've seen it done—but the only man that ever found the whip real lucrative was Tom Fallon, from Sag Harbor. Tom with his whip made a real nice little pile."

"How so?" the red headed man asked.

"Pickin' pockets," said the stranger.—Los Angeles Times.

A Phillips Brooks Story.

In the Christian Endeavor World the Rev. Francis E. Clark writes of his attending Andover Theological seminary with John Cotton Brooks, brother of the famous Massachusetts bishop and rector, the Rev. Phillips Brooks. The writer says:

I recall one repartee which John Brooks ascribed to his brother Phillips.

A famous but sensational Boston preacher, who soon afterward fell from his high estate, being a great sportsman and decidedly "horse," had written a much advertised book on titled "The Perfect Horse." "Yes," said Phillips Brooks, "The Perfect Horse," by the perfect ass." This was the only sentiment bordering on ill nature that I ever heard attributed to this most genial and kind hearted of men, and this could easily be forgiven when one remembers the skyrocket preacher of whom it was said.

Domestic Economy.

Husband—Excuse me, dear, but don't you cook much more for dinner than we can use? Wife—Of course! If I didn't how could I economize by "utilizing leftover dishes?"—Toledo Blade.

If You Have Money.

"That fellow Gotrox is a multimillionaire. He has more money than brains." "Well, what does he want with brains?"—New York Times.

PAINTED HIS PORTRAIT.

His Wife Was the Artist, and the Result Wasn't Flattering.

A suburbanite but lately married went out to post a letter, and as the lamp had not been lit in the room in which he dwelt he could only dimly see his way. A short distance up the road he met, as he thought, his wife, who had been out to tea, and as he went past he just whispered:

"All right, my dear: I shall be with you in a minute."

Immediately after he had said these words he saw the lady turn a startled look upon him and then hurry away, and the horrible idea occurred to him that it was not his wife at all and that in the darkness he had made a mistake. He decided to say nothing about the matter and quickly disappeared.

When he returned home he found his wife waiting for him, and she at once greeted him with the words:

"Oh, George, I have had such a frightful experience! I was just coming down the road when a man tried to stop me and said, 'All right, dear: I shall be with you in a minute.' I ran home, found you out, and I've been so much alarmed."

George was just about to explain when an idea came to him.

"What sort of man was it?" he asked.

"Oh," replied the young wife, "I saw him quite plainly, and a more villainous face I never beheld in my life. He was a perfect monster, with crime stamped upon every feature."

George decided it was best to say nothing after all.—London Tit-Bits.

FIGHT SHY OF A RAT.

Let the Rodent Escape Rather Than Run the Risk of a Bite.

"Never attack a rat in a closed room," says an old warehouseman who has had a world of experience in dealing with rodents. "Open a door or window and give it a chance to get away. Even if you've got a dog to help you, you may be bitten if you don't. Rat bites are very dangerous. A rat eats all sorts of carrion and filth and then puts his dirty whiskers into anything else he wants to sample."

"Here's another idiosyncrasy of rats. They logically carry out the principle of the survival of the fittest. And they are not merely suffragettes or suffragists, but the females absolutely boss the rat tribe. The slightest token of physical weakness in the baby rat is the signal for death at the teeth of its mother. About five rats survive from a nest of ten or fifteen. The male rat will fight to save the little ones, but is invariably driven off by the ferocity of the mother. You never saw a rat yet that wasn't a perfect specimen. If the mothers did not have this trait the earth would be overrun with rats.

"Rats live and travel in colonies. The head of the group is always an old female rat. When I start to clean up a settlement of rats I lay for the head female rat. If I catch and kill her the others disappear."—New York Times.

The Bear He Missed.

Telling in his book of some hunting experiences near the north pole, Captain Sverdrup wrote: "Walrus and seals were harpooned and shot and also the large arctic hare, which seems to have contracted the peculiar habit of frequently running long distances on its hind legs. Hunting was not always easy, the atmosphere playing strange tricks with the eyesight, as witness the following account of the stalking of a bear: 'With the utmost caution, with his gun ready and his eye fixed inexorably on the bear, Seriel advanced to the spot. Meanwhile the bear sat wagging its head, but keeping a good lookout. It appeared, for when Seriel had come some twenty steps nearer it rose and flew away. It flew as well as any bird, which, after all, was not remarkable, for it was a glaucous gull.'"

Helping Her Out.

A young lady boarder in a country household lamented the absence of letters. Catching little Melba, the pet of the household, up in her arms, she said:

"Precious, nobody loves me; I guess I'll go out in the garden and eat worms."

The next day Miss Alice was interrupted by a low knocking at the door. In answer to her summons Melba entered, grasping a large chip-carefully in both hands. The child said:

"Miss Alice, bad postman not bring you any letter; here's free big worms. Now you won't have to go out in the garden."—Los Angeles Times.

A Splurge Anyhow.

"So you employed the most expensive soloists you could find for your musical?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Cumrox. "Mother and the girls insisted on it. I don't know whether their idea was to show that we do care for art or that we don't care for money."—Washington Star.

Without a Doubt.

Dubbins—Do you know where I can find a lot facing south? Stubbins—Why not try around the north pole? That's a very likely place.—Exchange.

The Feminine of It.

Teacher—Tommy, what is the feminine of the masculine "stag"? Tommy (whose mother is a society leader)—Afternoon tea, ma'am.—Sphinx.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.

Religion of Ancient Rome.

The religion of the old Romans was not a religion at all—it was patriotism. In the republic—or in its better days, at least—the love of country was the all dominating feeling. Rome was all. To live for it, to die for it, to sacrifice on behalf of its welfare the most sacred possessions of life, was the Roman's religion. Decius, Regulus and the rest of the worthies who cheerfully sacrificed themselves upon the altar of their country were the Roman "saints." To do all for the state, and, having done all, to die for it if necessary, without any thought of future reward for the same—that was the religion of the men who made Rome the capital of the world.—New York American.

The Poor Victim.

Philanthropic Old Lady—But I gave you sixpence yesterday on condition that you were not to spend it in drink, and I can distinctly smell liquor on you. Deadhouse Dan—Lady, I am the victim of cruel circumstances. I found a bottle containin' wot appeared ter me ter be worter. Wot was my 'orror, lady, to find arter drinkin' of it all that it were whisky!—Sydney Bulletin.

The Earliest Cold Storage.
In Macaulay's essay on "Lord Bacon" he points out that in 1626 the subject of his memoir tried the experiment of stuffing a fowl with snow to prevent it from putrefying and in carrying out the work caught cold, from which he died. Macaulay adds: "In the last letter that he ever wrote, with fingers which, as he said, could not steadily hold a pen, he did not omit to mention that the experiment of the snow had succeeded excellently well. If, however, we turn to nature there are instances in Siberia of mammoths preserved in ice so that their flesh is still eatable from a period probably coeval with the first appearance of man on this globe. If the Romans brought to their banquets the dainties of the known world, had they not some knowledge of cold storage?—E. H. Hill, in London Spectator.

The Misuse of Vinegar.
Dr. Mansell Maullin, M. A., writing in the London Lancet on the causes of gastric ulcer, mentions vinegar as one cause. "In many of these instances, especially those which occur in young women, the effect of this chronic septic poisoning is intensified by the habit of many of them, have, of swallowing quantities of vinegar. Information with regard to this is very difficult to obtain and is never volunteered. It has to be drawn out bit by bit, but I have met with many instances in which a pint a day has been consumed and a few in which the quantity was occasionally much larger. The effect is probably greater because it is often taken between meals on an empty stomach under the curious impression that it will improve the complexion."

A Bit Thicker.
Parisians drink scarcely any water other than mineral water. The Seine water has a shocking reputation.
John Raphael, Paris correspondent for several London papers, said that one afternoon a pretty actress met her doctor at a dress rehearsal in a boulevard theater.
"Look here," she said, "I am quite sure that all this mineral water I drink, since you have forbidden wine, is dreadfully bad for me. I want your permission to drink filtered Seine water now."
"Very well," replied the doctor, "if you insist. But, mind, you must chew it well."

Could, but Would He?
"I have called," said the young man, "to ask for your daughter's hand in marriage."
"Can you support her in the style she has been accustomed to?"
"Yes," answered the young man.
"But will you?" demanded her father, who was already supporting two sons-in-law.—Detroit Free Press.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLIN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?
For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.
If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

Smoothing Trouble at Sea.
"Once, crossing the Atlantic," said an old traveler, "a tremendous row arose among the sailors. They fought down in the fore-castle like a pack of wild beasts. Luncheon was going on at the time, and the first officer left the table to see if he could quell the disturbance.
"He had only been gone a little while when the mighty hubbub began to die down. Everything was quiet when he returned. The captain called across the saloon to him in an approving tone:
"Things seem to be somewhat smoother now."
"Yes," returned the first officer; "we have ironed the sailors, sir."

Anecdotes of Richter.
Dr. Richter, will forgive us, we are sure, for telling two rehearsal stories about him. Madam X was singing at a rehearsal and was decidedly out of tune. Dr. Richter stood it as long as he could, then turned to her, "Madam," he said, "will you kindly give the orchestra your A?"
At another rehearsal one of the instrumentalists made a mistake. "No," said Dr. Richter, "it goes so (humming)—rum-tum-tarum!" The same player made another mistake. "No, no—rum-tum-tarum!" At the third mistake Dr. Richter momentarily lost patience and cried "Why do you make so many mistakes, Mr.—?" Then quickly recovering his habitual good humor, "Ah, I know why it is—you like to hear me sing!"—Manchester Guardian.

The Old Sod.
At the breaking of ground for one of the new buildings for the Catholic university at Washington the late Archbishop Ryan was present, and Cardinal Gibbons was officiating. The cardinal turned over a large piece of grass covered earth when it was discovered that there had been a hitch in the ceremony.
"Well," said the cardinal, "I suppose that we will have to dig another sod."
"Oh, no, no!" said Archbishop Ryan. "Never go back on the old sod!"—Philadelphia Times.

The Retort Caustic.

If you would abolish avarice you must abolish the parent of it, luxury.—Clover.

Train Your Dog to Wipe His Feet.
A puppy can easily be taught to wipe its feet on the doormat when entering a house, and the habit once formed is seldom broken. The modus operandi is simple. Every time the dog is brought to the door the command is given, "Wipe your feet." The trainer then lifts each paw in succession and pulls it twice across the mat. In a few days the dog will be wiping his own feet.—Good Housekeeping.

EPISCOPALS ARE WINNERS

Beat Baptists by Securing Six Scores in First Inning

REAL BALL PLAYING THEN

If the tale of the first inning were omitted there was some ball game going on down around Second street last night, when the Episcopalists beat the Baptists. They just simply beat because they couldn't help it. The score was something like 8 to 4.

One Boyd essayed to pitch for the Baptists but things didn't break right for him, and after he had hit three men, given a base on balls and one hit, it was decided it was no place for him and he was jerked. Allshouse went in and the Episcopalists smote the horsehide for a couple more hits. With six scores to their credit they got out.

Then the game began and it was a pippin. In the third the Episcopalists scored two. After Cratty had singled and got out on an attempted steal Montgomery lifted one for two pillows and was brought in by Roberts with a single. Roberts stole second, went third on an error and scored on another error.

The Baptists got three in the fourth inning. After Haywood singled Mason bunted and Haywood was extinguished at second. Felske was safe on an error. Scheiler singled, bringing in Mason, the John McIlvaine came up and pushed one to right for two bases scoring Felske and Scheiler. In the seventh Allshouse got on while the Episcopalists were putting out Simcox at second and was brought in when Lindsay bid two bases. The score:

Two Sets of Muscles.

You have two sets of muscles—the outer ones, which you can feel, and the inner ones, which are your lungs, heart, stomach and other internal organs. The outer ones are conveniences for performing actions. The inner ones are your life—the "fate" which makes you happy or depressed, powerful or weak, useful or the contrary. These inner muscles require training, just like any other muscles, by intelligently directed exercise.—J. Edmund Thompson in National Magazine.

Million Dollar Grand Jury Shows Washington County is Up-Do-Date

Bathing in Ancient Times.
The ancient Spartans were very definite as to the right and wrong kinds of bath. A daily dip in the river was permissible, and so was a dry bath in a chamber heated with warm air by means of a stove. But the warm water bath remained a mark of effeminacy, as it had been in Homeric times. No public warm baths were permitted in the vigorous days of early Athens. Antiquity comprises the extremes of practice in this matter of bathing. There were the Dardanians, a Balkan people, who were said to bathe only three times—at birth, at marriage and after death. At the other end of the scale stood the later Roman emperors, with seven or eight baths a day. And they are all dead!—London Graphic.

A Child's Quick Wit.
It was a very pretty reply Roger Sherman's little daughter made to George Washington. The general had been calling on her father, and the young miss opened the door for him as he was leaving.

"You deserve a better office, my little lady," remarked Washington, smiling at her.

"Yes, sir," she replied, with a courtesy; "to let you in."—Boston Transcript.

In view of the fact that the Legislature has recommended an appropriation of $100,000 for the proposed joint county bridge at West Brownsville, the estimated cost of which is $300,000, the grand jury did not pass upon that project. It will reconvene on July 12 to take up the matter when it is expected that the petition will be approved. If the Legislative appropriation is granted the estimated cost of the bridge to the two counties—Washington and Fayette—will be $200,000, making Washington's share $100,000.

DELEGATES ELECTED BY THE LADY MACCABEES AT DISTRICT MEETING

Billion Dollar Congress Equaled in Effect by Men Who Pass on Expenditures

$500,000 FOR NEW ROADS

Generations Yet to Come Will be Up Against Task of Paying off Bonds and Interests of Incurred Debts

A "billion dollar Congress" at one time startled the people of the United States by the profligacy of its expenditures, but in these days of frenzied finance nothing is surprising, when it comes to the disbursement of public funds. A million dollar grand jury shows that Washington county is not to be outdone in the matter of public expenditures.

To provide the sinews of war for this tremendous proposed outlay the grand jury approved the petition of the county commissioners for a $500,000 issue of road bonds. As a matter of course this doesn't more than half cover the proposed expenditures but as the latter will drag interminably in the future, generations yet to come will be paying off bonds and interest when those who incurred the debts are dead and forgotten.

This is the record of the grand jury at the county seat which completed its labors Thursday. When the amount of estimated public expenditures approved by this body is summed up it amounts in round numbers to $885,500. To this is to be added another $100,000 which the grand jury is likely to add when it meets again in July to consider the free Brownsville bridge project. This is not quite a million but as it only lacks $14,400 of it a few thousands more or less are immaterial.

All told, the grand jury approved road petitions to the amount of $857,414.14 estimated cost. There are 51 1-2 miles altogether of which 37 3-4 miles are to be constructed of brick and 13 3-4 miles of macadam. The longest piece of brick road is four miles. This is the Pike Run road, the estimated cost of which is $74,437. The longest macadam road is the Williamsport pike 9 3-4 miles, with an estimated cost of $110,000. Nine pieces of road approved for construction of brick had previously been approved by the grand jury for macadam improvements five or six years ago.

With the roads petitions all approved the grand jury turned its attention to bridges and approved the following, which was every one asked for except the Brownsville bridge.

Finleyville borough bridge over Peters creek, a span of 50 feet to cost $4,445.10; Bethany borough bridge, 60 foot span over Pigeon creek, $5,313; Monongahela, First ward, bridge over Pigeon creek, 110 foot span to cost $18,000, one half to be paid by the street car company; Sparta bridge, over Short creek in Morris township, 18 foot span, to cost $387.71; Bethany-Hopewell bridge, 40 foot span, to cost $4,015 and the Peters township bridge.

BLOOD POISONING RESULTS IN DEATH

Frank Welsh Dies at Memorial Hospital, Monongahela, Where He Had Been Taken With Mutilated Arm

His arm badly mutilated about two weeks ago when he was caught between a big belt and fly wheel it is stated at the Charleroi Brick works Frank Welsh, 17 years old, of Charleroi died this morning at the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela. The young man contracted blood poison from the effect of the injury a few days ago after being taken to the hospital, which resulted in his death.

Young Welsh it is said was playing with another boy around the brick works. According to the story told they were throwing clay and stones on a big belt watching them being carried a distance. A stone too large was thrown on, and being afraid it would enter the machinery, Welsh made a desperate attempt to pull it away, it is said, and his arm was caught. He was taken to the hospital the same evening.

Eckel of Charleroi and Mrs. Minnie Kelley, of Donora were chosen regular delegates and Mrs. C. H. Truxal of Belle Vernon and Mrs. Mary McClain of Brownsville alternates.

The afternoon session, which was in reality the only one of the convention, was called to order at 2 o'clock by Mrs. Eckel, Lady Commander of the Charleroi Hive. She introduced Miss Lonsberry, who then assumed the chair. A pleasing program of literary and musical numbers was given and the Donora guard team gave an exhibition drill. The program consisted of the following numbers: Recitation, Mrs. Kelly, Belle Vernon; Scotch song, Mrs. M. J. McGee, Charleroi; recitation, Mrs. Peterson, Belle Vernon; song and recitation, Mrs. Linn, Donora; recitation, Mrs. Emma Evans, Charleroi; recitation, Mrs. Sickels, Donora; recitation, Mrs. Leila Frye, Monessen; Miss Lonsberry and Mrs. Ellsworth both made addresses.

Following the adjournment of the convention the visitors were taken to the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church where a hot supper was served by the Ladies Aid society of that denomination. Details previously arranged were carried out to the letter and the 111 women composing the party were all seated at a given signal. Miss Lonsberry asked the blessing.

In the evening the regular session of the Charleroi hive was held and it was attended by a number of women from other hives who remained over. Members of the Grandview hive of Pittsburgh were present. Lodge business concluded, a social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served. The convention was one of the most successful ever held in the district.

CLEAN UP

Many towns are having a clean-up
day, or a succession of them. In some
of these the movement is voluntary,
and the promoters appeal to civic pride for all to co-operate, while in
others the public health officers issue
a mandate for a general clean-up on a certain date and enforce it by aid of State law and municipal health regulations. Both methods are productive
of good results.

Thanks to the vigilance of Charle-
roi's health officer and the activity of
the street commissioner, this town is
not so much in need of a general
clean-up as many others. There are many places, however, where some
improvement in this respect might
be made, and now is the time to take
this matter in hand. The most offensive places are perhaps the vacant
lots, which become the recipients of
all sorts of rubbish and accumulations.
With these nuisances abated, Charle-
roi will make a most presentable appearance.

GOING THE LIMIT

In approving the $500,000 bond issue petitioned for by the county commissioners for the construction of county roads under the Elgin road law
it is questionable whether the act was
a wise economic move at this particular time and under present conditions. The real question at issue is whether it is wise to put the whole
burden of this road construction on
the county on the eve of an era when
State and National aid are bound to be enormously extended. While no
one will deny that improved roads are
not needed badly enough, the mere
fact of involving the county with an enormous debt at the present time
will not hasten the construction of these improvements. Judging by past experience the proposed new
roads will not be completed during
the next five or six years, at least.
Roads approved by the grand jury
six years ago, and for which nearly

half a million dollars have been expended, are not completed yet.
It is stated that the present bond
issue will bring the county indebtedness to within $400,000 of two per cent of the present assessed valuation
which is the limit the county commissioners will be enabled to issue
without a vote of the people. With
the amounts to be asked for free
bridges and other requirements, the hands of future boards of commissioners will be most effectually tied in the way of county improvements. This was the condition of the boards in the
past as a result of the previous "good
roads" movement, when county resources were mortgaged for a time,
and the roads approved by the grand
jury could not be constructed as expected, but had to be held up for lack
of funds. Going the limit of indebtedness works much the same with
counties and municipalities as with
individuals.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The queer rumble of the steam roller is an occasional sound at Harrisburg.

With the dear old summer time, will come the dear old smell of the garbage wagon.

The New York man who concluded
he had to die at a certain hour in order to reach heaven on time, at that has something on some of those who profess religion.

It is noticeable that the big circuses are beginning to show in the smaller towns and cities even more and more.

If the roads of Washington county are to be improved they are to be improved with brick. And what a speedway for speed-maniacs.

The man who from lack of system never knows where his favorite office pen is, after all is only on a par with the man who has so much system that he is continually humping part of it.

Amateur carpentering is not often as great a failure as is amateur gardening, because the amateur carpenter does not tackle the hardest propositions first.

It doesn't matter so much about the rest of the town, but the rebels would like to have the privilege of the hull ring down in Juarez.

The foreigner who concludes the United States is no improvement to the country from which he comes is perfectly welcome to return. We are no more desirous of his company than he is of ours.

If it is true that a uneasy lies the George, who is yet to get the crown can consider how fortunate he is now.

There's not much use gathering about whether to accept a loan or not.
The main thing is to get it.

It would cost too much to go to the

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"It was a notable representation of
men that appeared before the grand jury from Charleroi in advocacy of
good substantial brick roads," at the
good substantial brick roads," said
Hon. Edward Callaghan, who is serving in the capacity of grand juror at
the county seat. Messrs. Thompson, Berryman Daly, Rushand Hott created
favorable impression upon the tribunal that was to pass upon these positions. For the future guidance of the council of Charleroi it will be
important to put on record the opinions expressed by R. H. Ruch and Kerfoot Daly, while on the witness
stand, and which had an important
bearing on the case.
While they did not commit the
borough of Charleroi to a policy that
it would pave the half mile of mud
holes connecting with the Fallowfield
end of the brick paving, they did
make it apparent, not only to the grand jury, but to Washington county
that if the borough of Charleroi did
not pave Lincoln avenue extension
it was ignoring the wishes of up-to-
date progressive citizens who stood
before them."

The other day a three-year old tot
was taken from her home on the hill
to stay with her grandmother on one
of the lower streets, while an interesting event took place at the hillside
home. That evening the little one's father came to bring her back and
thought to surprise her with the re-
mark:
"What do you think, you have a little sister at home."

I thought you were getting ready
for something there," was the sage
reply.

TAKE OF A NAIL

The Quaker Way in Which a Crime Was Brought to Light.

Dr. John Donne, the famous English divine and poet, who lived in the
reign of James I., was a veritable Sherlock Holmes. One of his famous exploits was as follows: He was walking in the churchyard while a
grave was being dug, when the sexton
cast up a moldering skull. The doctor took it up and in handling it found
a headless nail driven into it.

This he managed to take out and conceal in his handkerchief. It was evident to him that murder had been done. He questioned the sexton and
learned that the skull was probably
that of a certain man who was the proprietor of a brandy shop and was a drunkard, being found dead in bed one morning after a pig in which he had drunk two quarts of brandy.

"Had he a wife?" asked the doctor.
"Yes." "What character does she
bear?" "She bore a very good character, only the neighbors gossiped because she married the day after her
husband's funeral. She still lives here."
The doctor soon called on the woman.
He asked for, and received, the particulars of the death of her husband.
Suddenly opening his handkerchief, he
showed her the telltale nail, asking in
a loud voice, "Madame, do you know
this nail?" The woman was so surprised that she confessed, was tried
and executed—London Tr-Bits.

ART OF JUGGLING.

A Means of Recreation For the Sedentary or Bedridden.

Speaking of conjuring, the allied art of juggling is one of the most amusing and valuable of diversions, especially to the sedentary. Many physicians become expert in juggling, but it is so much patients that it is most useful.

The bedridden, if they retain the use of their hands, may beguile many a weary hour in learning to keep three or four tennis balls in the air at once and in balancing sticks and other simple objects on the forefinger or on the chin.

For the brain worker who does not care for walking there is no better recreation. It has often occurred to us that in cases where there is any reason to fear some form of paralysis the educating of diseased cerebral, cerebellar and spinal centers by the rapid and complex movements required in juggling might serve to act as an efficient preventive.

We do not wish to claim too much for manual education of this kind, but we may point out that it tends to perfect nervous poise and that no juggling trick can be properly done if the performer indulges in dissipation even so mild as beer and cigarettes.—American Medicine.

Talking to the Doctor.
While making some professional calls in a sparsely settled district I came upon a little plump, rosy cheeked girl trudging toward home with her slate and dinner pail in her hand. I asked her to ride with me. I could see that she was a very timid child, and efforts to engage her in conversation were unavailing. She would weakly answer "Yes" or "No," but not another word would she speak.

A few weeks later I was called to the little girl's home to attend another member of the family for a slight ailment. When about to leave the mother spoke up smilingly and said: "Do you remember my little girl riding with you a few weeks ago? Well, when she got home she said, 'Mamma, I rode from school with the doctor, and he kept talking with me and talking with me, and I just didn't know what to do, for you know doctors charge you when you talk with them, and I didn't have any money.'"—National Monthly.

A Story of Longfellow.
In Longfellow's journal, in which he chronicled daily things that came under his observation, he notes that upon a certain occasion he attended a church where the minister took as his subject "Progress." He was very flattered when the latter quoted about half of the "Psalm of Life." After repeating the verses the minister said, "I could never read that poem without feeling the inspiration with which it was written." To this incident Longfellow adds: "But I had the conceit taken out of me on the evening of that day, when I happened to meet a lady at Prescott's and in our conversation she referred to the sermon in the morning and added, 'He quoted some beautiful verses, but nobody knew from whence came the quotations.'"

Handy With the Whip.
Teamsters are prouder of their skill with the whip than of anything else in the world. A group of teamsters were talking one night.
"Out on the plains," said one young fellow, "I used to cut down a steer with my whip, skin him and divide up his carcass."
A red headed fellow said his uncle could take two whips and write the Lord's Prayer on the bark of a birch with the left hand one, at the same time operating selections with the other on a tin can at seven paces.

"That's pretty good work," said a veteran, "but my old father used to draw coaks with every flick of the lash."
Then a cross eyed stranger spoke up.
"Gents," he said, "I know there's men can even hair cut and shave ye with a whip—I know it, for I've seen it done—but the only man that ever found the whip real lucrative was Tom Fallon, from Sag Harbor. Tom with his whip made a real nice little pile."
"How so?" the red headed man asked.

"Pickin' pockets," said the stranger.—Los Angeles Times.
A Phillips Brooks Story.
In the Christian Endeavor World the Rev. Francis E. Clark writes of his attending Andover Theological seminary with John Cotton Brooks, brother of the famous Massachusetts bishop and rector, the Rev. Phillips Brooks. The writer says:
I recall one repartee which John Brooks ascribed to his brother Phillips.

A famous but sensational Boston preacher, who soon afterward fell from his high estate, being a great sportsman and decidedly "horsy," had written a much advertised book entitled "The Perfect Horse." "You," said Phillips Brooks, "The Perfect Horse," by the perfect ass." This was the only sentiment bordering on ill nature that I ever heard attributed to this most genial and kind hearted of men, and this could easily be forgiven when one remembers the skyrocket preacher of whom it was said.

Domestic Economy.
Husband—Excuse me, dear, but don't you cook much more for dinner than we can use? Wife—Of course! If I didn't how could I economize by utilizing leftover dishes?—Toledo Blade.
If You Have Money.
"That fellow Gotrox is a multimillionaire. He has more money than brains."
"Well, what does he want with brains?"—New York Times.

PAINTED HIS PORTRAIT.

His Wife Was the Artist, and the Result Wasn't Flattering.

A suburbanite but lately-married went out to post a letter, and as the lamp had not been lit in the room in which he dwelt he could only dimly see his way. A short distance up the road he met, as he thought, his wife, who had been out to tea, and as he went past he just whispered:

"All right my dear; I shall be with you in a minute."

Immediately after he had said these words he saw the lady turn a startled look upon him and then hurry away, and the horrible idea occurred to him that it was not his wife at all and that in the darkness he had made a mistake. He decided to say nothing about the matter and quickly disappeared.

When he returned home he found his wife waiting for him, and she at once greeted him with the words:

"Oh, George, I have had such a frightful experience! I was just coming down the road when a man tried to stop me and said, 'All right, dear, I shall be with you in a minute.' I ran home, found you out, and I've been so much alarmed."

George was just about to explain when an idea came to him.

"What sort of man was it?" he asked.

"Oh," replied the young wife, "I saw him quite plainly, and a more villainous face I never beheld in my life. He was a perfect monster, with crime stamped upon every feature."

George decided it was best to say nothing after all.—London Tit-Bits.

FIGHT SHY OF A RAT.

Let the Rodent Escape Rather Than Run the Risk of a Bite.

"Never attack a rat in a closed room," says an old warehouseman who has had a world of experience in dealing with rodents. "Open a door or window and give it a chance to get away. Even if you're got a dog to help you, you may be bitten if you don't. Rat bites are very dangerous. A rat eats all sorts of carrion and filth and then puts his dirty whiskers into anything else he wants to sample. Here's another idiosyncrasy of rats. They logically carry out the principle of the survival of the fittest. And they are not merely suffragettes or suffragists, but the females absolutely boss the rat tribe. The slightest token of physical weakness in the baby rat is the signal for death at the teeth of its mother. About five rats survive from a nest of ten or fifteen. The male rat will fight to save the little ones, but is invariably driven off by the ferocity of the mother. You never saw a rat yet that wasn't a perfect specimen. If the mothers did not have this trait the earth would be overrun with rats.

"Rats live and travel in colonies. The head of the group is always an old female rat. When I start to clean up a settlement of rats I lay for the head female rat. If I catch and kill her the others disappear."—New York Times.

The Bear He Missed.

Telling in his book of some hunting experiences near the north pole, Captain Sverdrup wrote: "Walrus and seals were harpooned and shot and also the large arctic hare, which seems to have contracted the peculiar habit of frequently running long distances on its hind legs. Hunting was not always easy, the atmosphere playing strange tricks with the eyesight, as witness the following account of the stalking of a bear: 'With the utmost caution, with his gun ready and his eye fixed inexorably on the bear, Serlet advanced to the spot. Meanwhile the bear sat wagging its head, but keeping a good lookout, it appeared, for when Serlet had come some twenty steps nearer it rose and flew away. It flew as well as any bird, which, after all, was not remarkable, for it was a glaucous gull.'"

Helping Her Out.

A young lady boarder in a country household lamented the absence of letters. Catching little Melba, the pet of the household, up in her arms, she said:

"Precious, nobody loves me; I guess I'll go out in the garden and eat worms."

The next day Miss Alice was interrupted by a low knocking at the door. In answer to her summons Melba entered, grasping a large chip carefully in both hands. The child said:

"Miss Alice, bad postman not bring you any letter, here's tree big worms. Now you won't have to go out in the garden."—Los Angeles Times.

A Splurge Anyhow.

"So you employed the most expensive soloists you could find for your musical?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Camrox. "Mother and the girls insisted on it. I don't know whether their idea was to show that we do care for art or that we don't care for money."—Washington Star.

Without a Doubt.

Dubbins—Do you know where I can find a lot facing south? Stubbins—Why not try around the north pole? That's a very likely place.—Exchange.

Teacher—Tommy, what is the feminine of the masculine "stag"? Tommy (whose mother is a society leader)—Afternoon tea, ma'am.—Sphinx.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.

Quality at Low Prices and the Quantity You Ask For

Does the quality of what you eat cut any ice with you? If it does we have something to say to you. We are now making a specialty of Cudahy's Diamond "C" Hams and we want to say to you that there isn't a better ham in this country today than Diamond "C". In slicing hams we only slice the heart of them, and we sell this heart of ham at 25 cents per pound. If you try this once you will never use any other.

These hams are on sale whole at the following prices: Skinned, 17c per lb.; regular 15c per lb. Coliforma Hams are now 11c per lb. We do not sell anything only our own make of lard, every pound of which is guaranteed absolutely pure, and is now selling at the following low prices: single pounds, three and five pound pails 12½c per pound, ten and twenty pound pails 12½c per pound, fifty pound cans 12c per pound. Dry Salt Side 12 1-2c per lb.

We have been selling Butterine here for the past ten months. In that time we have tested a good many different brands, and have chosen the one that we think is the best. This is the Holland Creamery Co's. Silver Churn. Last winter we sold this Butterine at 28c per pound. We are going to make a specialty of this particular brand and beginning Saturday morning we will sell "Silver Churn" at 20c per pound.

Religion of Ancient Rome.

The religion of the old Romans was not a religion at all—it was patriotism. In the republic—or in its better days, at least—the love of country was the all dominating feeling. Rome was all. To live for it, to die for it, to sacrifice on behalf of its welfare the most sacred possession of life was the Roman's religion. Decius Regulus and the rest of the worthies who cheerfully sacrificed themselves upon the altar of their country were the Roman "saints." To do all for the state, and having done all, to die for it if necessary, without any thought of future reward for the same—that was the religion of the men who made Rome the capital of the world.—New York American.

The Poor Victim.

Philanthropic Old Lady—But I gave you sixpence yesterday on condition that you were not to spend it in drink, and I can distinctly smell liquor on you. Deadhouse Dan—Lady, I am the victim of cruel circumstances. I found a bottle containin' rot appeared ter me ter be worse. 'Twas my 'orror, lady, to find arter drinkin' of it all that it were whisky.—Sydney Bulletin.

The Earliest Cold Storage.
In Macaulay's essay on "Lord Bacon" he points out that in 1623 the subject of his memoir tried the experiment of stuffing a fowl with snow to prevent it from putrefying and in carrying out the work caught cold, from which he died. Macaulay adds: "In the last letter that he ever wrote, with fingers which, as he said, could not steadily hold a pen, he did not omit to mention that the experiment of the snow had succeeded excellently well." If, however, we turn to nature there are instances in Siberia of mammoths preserved in ice so that their flesh is still eatable from a period probably coeval with the first appearance of man on this globe. If the Romans brought to their banquets the dainties of the known world, had they not some knowledge of cold storage?—E. H. Hill in London Spectator.

The Misuse of Vinegar.
Dr. Mansell Maullin, M. D., writing in the London Lancet on the causes of gastric ulcer, mentions vinegar as one cause. "In many of these instances, especially those which occur in young women, the effect of this chronic septic poisoning is intensified by the habit of eating, then, of swallowing quantities of vinegar. Information with regard to this is very difficult to obtain and is never volunteered. It has to be drawn out bit by bit, but I have met with many instances in which a pint a day has been consumed and a few in which the quantity was occasionally much larger. The effect is probably greater because it is often taken between meals on an empty stomach under the curious impression that it will improve the complexion."

A Bit Thicker.
Parisians drink scarcely any water other than mineral water. The Seine water has a shocking reputation. John Raphael, Paris correspondent for several London papers, said that one afternoon a pretty actress met her doctor at a dress rehearsal in a boulevard theater. "Look here," she said, "I am quite sure that all this mineral water I drink, since you have forbidden wine, is dreadfully bad for me. I want your permission to drink filtered Seine water now." "Very well," replied the doctor, "if you insist. But, mind, you must chew it well."

Could, but Would He?
"I have called," said the young man, "to ask for your daughter's hand in marriage." "Can you support her in the style she has been accustomed to?" "Yes," answered the young man. "But will you?" demanded her father, who was already supporting two sons-in-law.—Detroit Free Press.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind.—"Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon."—Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2723 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be absolutely confidential, and the advice free.

Smoothing Trouble at Sea.
"Once, crossing the Atlantic," said an old traveler, "a tremendous row arose among the sailors. They fought down in the fore-castle like a pack of wild beasts. Luncheon was going on at the time, and the first officer left the table to see if he could quell the disturbance."

"He had only been gone a little while when the mighty hubbub began to die down. Everything was quiet when he returned. The captain called across the saloon to him in an approving tone: "Things seem to be somewhat smoother now." "Yes," returned the first officer, "we have ironed the sailors, sir."

Anecdotes of Richter.
Dr. Richter will forgive us, we are sure, for telling two rehearsal stories about him. Madam S. was singing at a rehearsal and was decidedly out of tune. Dr. Richter stood it as long as he could, then turned to her, "Madam," he said, "will you kindly give the orchestra four A's?" At another rehearsal one of the instrumentalists made a mistake. "No," said Dr. Richter, "it goes so (humming)—rum-tum-tarum!" The same player made another mistake. "No, no—rum-tum-tarum!" At the third mistake Dr. Richter momentarily lost patience and cried: "Why do you make so many mistakes, Mr. —?" Then quickly recovering his habitual good humor, "Ah, I know why it is—you like to hear me sing!"—Manchester Guardian.

The Old Sod.
At the breaking of ground for one of the new buildings for the Catholic University at Washington the late Archbishop Ryan was present, and Cardinal Gibbons was officiating. The cardinal turned over a large piece of grass covered earth when it was discovered that there had been a hitch in the ceremony. "Well," said the cardinal, "I suppose that we will have to dig another sod." "Oh, no, no!" said Archbishop Ryan. "Never go back on the old sod!"—Philadelphia Times.

The Retort Caustic.
"No, indeed," said the cancelled young poppy who had been asked whether he had attended a certain select dance. "I—aw—only associate with my equals, you know." "Really?" responded a witty young lady. "You should aim higher than that!"—London Telegraph.

The Proof.
"If your wife is such a terribly good cook why don't you eat more dinners at home?" "Gee! How would I know how good she could cook if I didn't eat somewhere else?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Matinee Idol.
"He's a stickler for realism." "Yes, but he carries it to excess. In the second scene he is supposed to be severely wounded, but he has a surgeon issue bulletins between the acts."—Pittsburg Post.

Large Order.
"Your own baby, if you have one, advertised the enterprising photographer, can be enlarged, tinted and framed for $2.75 a dozen."—Blue Bull.

If you would abolish avarice you must abolish the parent of it, luxury. —Chambers.

Train Your Dog to Wipe His Feet

A puppy can easily be taught to wipe its feet on the doormat, when entering a house, and the habit once formed is seldom broken. The method is simple. Every time the dog is brought to the door the command is given, "Wipe your feet." The trainer then lifts each paw in succession and pulls it twice across the mat. In a few days the dog will be wiping his own feet.—Good Housekeeping.

EPISCOPALS ARE WINNERS

Beat Baptists by Securing Six Scores in First Inning

REAL BALL PLAYING THEN

If the tale of the first inning were omitted there was some ball game going on down around Second street last night, when the Episcopalists beat the Baptists. They just simply beat because they couldn't help it. The score was something like 8 to 4.

One Boyd essayed to pitch for the Baptists but things didn't break right for him, and after he had hit three men, given a base on balls and one hit, it was decided it was no place for him and he was jerked. Allhouse went in and the Episcopalists smote the horsehide for a couple more hits. With six scores to their credit they got out.

Then the game began and it was a pippin. In the third the Episcopalists scored two. After Cratty had singled and got out on an attempted steal Montgomery lifted one for two pillows and was brought in by Roberts with a single. Roberts stole second, went third on an error and scored on another error.

The Baptists got three in the fourth inning. After Haywood singled Mason bunted and Haywood was extinguished at second. Felske was safe on an error. Scheiler singled, bringing in Mason, the John McIlvaine came up and pushed one to right for two bases scoring Felske and Scheiler. In the seventh Allhouse got on while the Episcopalists were putting out Simcox at second and was brought in when Lindsay bid two bases. The score:

Two Sets of Muscles.

You have two sets of muscles—the outer ones, which you can feel, and the inner ones, which are your lungs, heart, stomach and other internal organs. The outer ones are conveniences for performing actions. The inner ones are your life—the "fate" which makes you happy or depressed, powerful or weak, useful or the contrary. These inner muscles require training, just like any other muscles, by intelligently directed exercise.—J. Edmund Thompson in National Magazine.

Not So Easy as It Seemed. Twelve persons decided to lunch together every day and agreed not to sit twice in the same order. One of the number, a mathematician, surprised his associates by informing them that their decision meant that one and one-third million years must elapse before they would again be seated in the original order. Two men can sit together only in two different ways, three in six ways, four in twenty-four, five in 120, six in 720, seven in 5,040, eight in 40,320, nine in 362,880, ten in 3,628,800, eleven in 39,916,800 and twelve in 479,100,000.—Buch fur Alla.

Bathing in Ancient Times.

The ancient Spartans were very definite as to the right and wrong kinds of bath. A daily dip in the river was permissible, and so was a dry bath in a chamber heated with warm air by means of a stove. But the warm water bath remained a mark of effeminacy, as it had been in Homeric times. No public warm baths were permitted in the vigorous days of early Athens. Antiquity comprises the extremes of practice in this matter of bathing. There were the Dardanians, a Balkan people, who were said to bathe only three times—at birth, at marriage and after death. At the other end of the scale stood the later Roman emperors, with seven or eight baths a day. And they are all dead.—London Graphic.

A Child's Quick Wit.

It was a very pretty reply Roger Sherman's little daughter made to George Washington. The general had been calling on her father, and the young miss opened the door for him as he was leaving.

"You deserve a better office, my little lady," remarked Washington, smiling at her.

"Yes, sir," she replied, with a courtesy; "to let you in."—Boston Transcript.

over Brush run, 44 foot span no estimate given as to cost, which will in all probability exceed $5,000.

In view of the fact that the Legislature has recommended an appropriation of $100,000 for the proposed joint county bridge at West Brownsville, the estimated cost of which is $300,000, the grand jury did not pass upon that project. It will reconvene on July 12 to take up the matter when it is expected that the petition will be approved. If the Legislative appropriation is granted the estimated cost of the bridge to the two counties—Washington and Fayette—will be $200,000, making Washington's share $100,000.
